Herding Instinct Test

The Instinct Test is held in a small pen, either round in shape or with rounded corners, which can vary in size from 50 x 50 feet, up to 100 x 100 feet. Livestock used will be sheep. The dog will enter the pen on a 6-15 foot long line. Before removing the line, the dog must demonstrate a stop (down, sit or stand) and a recall. Once the dog has completed this exercise, the line may be dropped for the dog to drag, or removed entirely. If the dog cannot exhibit the stop, the tester is not to allow the dog off-line.

Once the dog is allowed to approach the livestock, the tester will be looking for sustained interest in controlling the livestock. This can be shown by the dog gathering the livestock, moving the livestock toward the handler, or moving them ahead of the handler in a driving position. A combination of any of these styles is acceptable.

Instinct Tests are open to all dogs six months of age or older, with or without previous experience on stock. Either the owner or the tester can work the dog for the Instinct Test.

The Blue Ridge Herding Association has set this test up so that exhibitors can sign up for two Instinct Tests under two separate judges. Passing dogs can complete the AKC Herding Instinct Certificate requirements in a single day.
